Hopes of Settlement Dim In Ontario's Gas Strike

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Settlement hopes were dim today as both union and management sides to the gas workers' strike in the Windsor and Sarnia areas that began Nov. 1.

"We can't capitulate to brute force," said Frank Capewell, regional manager for Union Gas Co. of Canada Ltd. "The union wants to take over all managerial rights."

And the union is as determined in its view.

"This fight is a battle to the death," says Fred Kinsman, a national representative of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' International Union (O.C.A.W.).

"We aren't interested in protecting the bosses but in protecting the interests of our members."

The strike by 211 of the company's servicemen, maintenance workers, meter readers and inspectors was called after the company refused to meet the union's demand for higher wages and a say in pension and fringe-benefit provisions.

Douglas Fisher said in Ottawa the most intriguing untold story of the federal election is what happened to the Liberal party's campaign funds collected in the late stages of the campaign. He said an estimated $100,000 of financial donations did not materialize and apparently hampered the Liberal's advertising program.

Robert McNamara, U.S. Defense Secretary, said Thursday in Washington "you can expect increasing emphasis on bombing operations against North Vietnamese infiltration routes into South Viet Nam."

Richard Holmes, 62, was fined $200 Thursday in Kingsclere, England, on a charge of being drunk while driving a nine-ton steamroller. He pleaded guilty. While operating the steamroller in last week's freezing weather, Holmes became chilled and stopped in a pub to warm up. After drinking four or five double brandies, he drove off on his steamroller. Police Inspector Bernard Mason said Holmes was so drunk he almost fell off the steamroller.

BENNETT ATTENDS FIRST EXAM FOR SLANDER SUIT IN VICTORIA

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett underwent preliminary examination Thursday in a slander suit brought against him by G. R. F. Jones, former chief purchasing agent of British Columbia.

His appearance at the law building here was for examination for discovery, a procedure which allows lawyers for both parties to explore their cases.

Examinations are held in private with only the lawyers and parties present.

Mr. Jones, removed from his job last March 28, launched the suit against the premier in B.C. supreme court. Trial is tentatively set for Dec. 20 in Vancouver.

Mr. Jones filed a statement of claim in July in which he alleged Bennett slandered him at a Social Credit association meeting in Victoria March 8.

He alleges Mr. Bennett's words about him were intended to mean that Jones was dishonest.

He is seeking unspecified general and punitive damages. Mr. Jones was retired by special act of the B.C. legislature at the last session after he was acquitted of charges of accepting a benefit while an official of the government.

Socred Party Votes Secretly Whether To Retain Thompson

EDMONTON (CP)—The Social Credit party's annual convention decides today whether to retain Robert Thompson as its national leader.

Barry Lebow, M. P. for Credit MP for Carlton, and H. A. (Bud) Olson, M. P. for Medicine Hat, were eliminated Thursday to contest the leadership.

About 200 delegates were to start voting secretly at 11:30 p.m. MST for a leader, a party president and three vice-presidents.

If none of the leadership candidates won more than 50 per cent of the ballots in the first vote, a second runoff was to be held. For the second vote, the man who polled the lowest number of ballots on the first vote would be dropped from the race.

The number of ballots polled by each candidate would not be made public, a party official said. Only the order in which the candidates finished would be revealed.

Mr. Thompson came out fighting Thursday.

"I don't see what more could have been done," he said. "It's a human characteristic to try to blame our problems on others but I believe we must look to ourselves."

Again, referring to the split with the Creditists, "This is being used against me very effectively at this convention that I was responsible for this split."

Mr. Thompson said many of his critics are "some of those who have given the least."

There appeared to be some bitterness between him and Mr. Olson. The party leader declined to pose with the Medicine Hat member for a newspaper photographer.

U.S. Stake In Canadian Industry Remains As Self-Generator

WASHINGTON (CP)—The $13,820,000,000 American stake in Canadian industry continues to be largely self-generating in raising capital for expansion, 1964 United States figures show.

Canadian profits or sources other than additional U.S. funds accounted for much of the $2,557,000,000 available to U.S. subsidiaries last year in three key areas of mining and smelting, petroleum, and manufacturing.

This compares with $2,330,000,000 a year earlier.

It broke down into $1,244,000,000 from net income of Canadian operations, $764,000,000 from depreciation and depletion, $423,000,000 from foreign funds other than U.S. and only $126,000,000 from further U.S. investment.

The picture was disclosed Wednesday by the commerce department's survey of current business for November. It indicates one reason why Canada so far has been exempt from the voluntary program of restriction on direct U.S. foreign investment—a program being sharpened in 1966 in a continued effort to end the American balance-of-payments deficit totaling $3,000,000,000 last year.

Court Told Of Car Club

OTTAWA (CP)—Existence of an automobile 'club' within the armed forces and RCMP whose members can buy cars at 20 per cent below normal retail prices came into the spotlight during the trial of Brig. John Baxter Allan.

Defence counsel R. K. Lalshley disclosed existence of the Servicemen's Automobile Club, incorporated in 1960, during his cross-examination of two Crown witnesses.

Army Staff Sgt. Herbert H. Fletcher and WO. D. M. Corrigan said memberships in the club cost $4 to $8 annually and are open to all members of the navy, army, RCAF and RCMP.

They said paid-up members are able to purchase cars directly from Canadian manufacturers, including General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Later, a pamphlet put out by the club was shown to reporters. It said membership in the club exceeds 10,000.

The pamphlet also said that since late 1960 4,000 automobiles have been delivered to "regular force" personnel at savings to servicemen estimated at $2,000,000.

Brig. Allan, former vice-quartermaster-general of the Canadian Army, is on trial on a charge of accepting an advantage or benefit in excess of $8,000 from a Toronto auto parts company between 1957 and 1963 while the firm was doing business with the government.

Legion Seeks Pension Hike

OTTAWA (CP)—The Royal Canadian Legion today asked the government for a 61.6-per-cent increase in pensions for Canada's 162,822 war disability pensioners.

In a brief to the cabinet, the legion urged that the maximum disability pension of $2,400 a year for a single pensioner be raised to $3,888. It sought comparable increases for married pensioners.

It said $2,880 is the annual salary of a junior in the federal civil service.

The legion brief said the 10-per-cent pension increase granted in 1964 was "no less a coming and it was far from enough."

The legion again based its arguments for a pension increase on the rates of 1955 when pensions were instituted after the First World War.

At that time, the total disability pension for a single man was $800 a year and it was raised, the legion said, on the 1950 annual salary of a civil service junior.

Since then, the junior's salary had risen to $3,200 but the pension for a totally disabled veteran had risen to only $2,400.

The legion also requested that it resist any wholesale transfer of federal veterans hospitals to civilian authorities.

The merits of each proposed transfer must be considered with respect to that hospital alone, it said.

Recently Warring Politicians Help Legion With Its Birthday

OTTAWA (CP)—Three lately-warring political leaders turned a united front Thursday night to help the Royal Canadian Legion celebrate its 40th birthday.

Prime Minister Pearson, Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and NDP Leader T. C. Douglas swapped small talk and shared head table seats of the group's anniversary dinner at Governor-General Vanier, the Legion's grand patron, warned the association leaders from across the country of the "temptation to withdraw in disappointment and introversion" from the challenges of the times.

He said the Legion leadership has "been more than equal to the challenge." He noted membership has risen 25,000 in the last four years to a total of 275,500.

The Legion's most important mission, he said, is to promote national unity.

Time, he said, is passing and now "half of all Canadians have a memory of either world war." The Legion must bring remembrance of those who died, 118,000 in both wars.

Toasting the Legion, Mr. Pearson said it can take pride that in 40 years it had "done well in the pursuit" of its duties. These included a better deal for veterans, their dependents and the families of those who died.

Tongue-in-cheek he complimented the Legion—of which he is a member—for bringing together him, Mr. Douglas and Mr. Diefenbaker who have been kept apart recently going around the country "wearing undying devotion to each other."

Mr. Douglas said he was a member of the Legion's greatest achievement.

Mr. Douglas and Mr. Diefenbaker did not speak.

It was the third time the trial of the man has been declared a mistrial.

A jurymen, whose name has been withheld, reported Wednesday night he was preoccupied with his mortgage would be paid if he voted for an acquittal.

It was the second time, police said, that the juror had been approached. The first time he was told that mortgage payments on his home would be made, they said.

Voters Have Opportunity In Zoning And Pollution

The 105 people that turned up for the Wednesday night November meeting of the Kelowna chamber of commerce, we feel, got their money's worth.

There were many new faces, people who do not often attend the regular monthly meetings of the chamber and that is good. The masterful hand of Bill Bennett, as chairman, showed up a number of times, setting questions right, making the necessary comment, but above all keeping the speakers on track and on time.

It was a worthwhile meeting from many standpoints.

One problem that might have been discussed at greater length, not at that time however, was the feeling abroad in the city that the present area set aside for multi-story apartment blocks is such that no developer wants to enter.

Quite a while ago council decided Harvey Ave. would eventually become a green belt, they haven't decided what to line it with yet, but at the end nearest the bridge they decided we should have large apartment blocks.

A number of planners have suggested this area, so no one can blame any one official.

Real estate people say we would have multi-story apartment blocks in Kelowna now if the city would allow their construction in a reasonable area.

Big objection to the present zone is price. Economically, say some, you would have to have an eight-story block to make your cost of land per suite come out in the correct proportion. Many say Kelowna is ready for a five-story block, but not higher. Then in the present location parking areas would have to be provided, also at a cost that is not economical.

Of course the planner was not at the meeting Wednesday night to tell why that area was selected, and neither was Ald. E. R. Winter who is in charge of zoning and planning, as far as council is concerned.

Possibly the new committee set up by realtors to work with the city planning staff on zoning problems will be able to resolve some of the rough weather in this area.

But the meeting itself showed city council is not sitting on its hands. There are many, many things to be done and only so much money to do it with.

When the Aquatic grandstand is found to be safe for only half the people who could sit on the seats, you can hardly blame council for spending the available money to prop it up.

Strangely enough, this year we have had two big questions discussed fairly thoroughly in the city. One was zoning and the other was pollution. The two aldermen who are seeking re-election are in charge of zoning and pollution, Ald. Winter the former, Ald. Jack Bedford the latter, although Ald. Jack Bedford is in charge of the works committee which has much to do with pollution prevention.

The two aldermen seeking re-election have been quoted often enough on where they stand in these two areas.

The voters have an opportunity now to express their opinions on these statements.

Obscurity Now Covers Mr. K And Last Traces Of Rule Go

MOSCOW (Reuters)—In just over a year, the identity of Nikita Khrushchev has become almost complete, and Russia's new rulers are busy covering the last traces of the former premier.

The Communist who made the greatest impact on Russian life since Lenin and Stalin and who raised the Kremlin's world image to new heights, Khrushchev now is a weary, ailing pensioner of 71.

The Soviet people over whom he ruled with boundless zest for 11 years, sometimes remember his rumbustious ways with affection, but mostly he is forgotten, a relic of history.

Little more than a year ago, the pudgy presence of Khrushchev loomed large over the world scene, and Soviet destinies seemed woven with the premier's bluff, bubbling personality.

His abrupt dismissal Oct. 14, 1964, by the Communist Party Central Committee, on grounds of "advanced age" and "deterioration of health," came as a shock to the world, a bombshell to the Russians.

For a few hours, with the ruling caucus heavily against him, he stood in a Kremlin committee room, fighting back, arguing, sometimes pleading for a political future.

JOINED IN VOTE
When the debate ended, he raised his hand with the others, and voted himself out of office—into obscurity.

Khrushchev stepped into an oblivion rarely experienced by a defeated politician in the West. There are no political conventions for him to rally, no garden parties to open, no memoirs to write. Nobody asks any more what he thinks and, it seems, nobody cares, except for foreign newspaper men.

The man who made more headlines than any other Russian is fast becoming an "unknown." He is never mentioned by the newspapers, his name is being slowly edited out of the reference books, his portraits have vanished, and Kremlin spokesmen shrug when asked about his health.

Last March, he made a brief appearance, to vote in local Moscow elections, and was glimpsed in his eyes when curious sightseers applauded.

It was one of several fleeting appearances in Moscow early this year. Lately, less has been seen of him.

He has a government apartment in the city, a chauffeur-driven limousine, and still a Kremlin bodyguard. He is apparently free to come and go, and his pension is adequate.

LIVES IN VILLA
Khrushchev apparently spends most of his time at a riverside villa, 25 miles from Moscow, walking in the woods, fishing and re-reading the Russian classics.

This summer he was in the hospital for several weeks, under treatment for gallstones. Friends say he made a good recovery, without the need for surgery, but that he looked tired and had lost weight. The old house had gone, they say.

In a continuing pattern of internal change since October, 1964, the Central Committee recently broke apart the decentralized economic machine introduced by Khrushchev in 1957.

It was the second major step by his successors to change the framework he had decreed for Communist society. Last November, they reunited the Communist Party organization—he had split it into two halves—for industry and agriculture.

Until October, 1964, Khrushchev's impact and often his personal idiosyncrasies dictated Soviet policy. He disliked skyscrapers, so house-building was limited to five-story structures. Now, the architects are aiming for the sky again.

CURBED PROFITS
Khrushchev disliked peasants making private profits, and so he curbed the size of their personal land and cattle holdings. The new leaders have given the holdings back to the farmers. His pet crop was corn, and he tried to forbid the rotation of crops; both trends have been halted.

The party claims the new trend toward "scientific communism"—instead of Khrushchev's "hasty, bare-brained scheming"—will bring better results. And many observers agree the new administration's sober, unemotional drive for economic reform shows serious promise.

In foreign policy, little has changed fundamentally. The earlier relations with the United States with which Khrushchev worked have been transformed into a near-freeze, but this is due to the Viet Nam war rather than to deliberate decision by the new rulers.

WASHINGTON CALLING

Policy In Viet Nam Termed Lies By Some

By GORDON DONALDSON
Toronto Telegram News Service

WASHINGTON (Special)—The popular word for it in diplomatic circles is "improvement".

Politicians on the opposition side call it concealing the facts or misleading the public.

But in some of the politest Washington salons this week you hear the nasty word "lying".

Some statements by U.S. officials about policy in Viet Nam deserve no kinder description.

The whole basis of the escalation of the war there is that the Communists won't talk peace. So Lyndon Johnson has to pour in more fighting troops and face higher casualty figures until the North Vietnamese come to the conference table.

NEW POLICY
On April 7, after he sent combat units into the field and launched daily bombing raids on North Viet Nam, Johnson announced his new policy of "unconditional discussions" with any government which could bring peace.

On July 12, he told a press conference: "I must say that there has not been the slightest indication that the other side is interested in negotiation or in unconditional discussions, although the United States has made some down separate attempts to bring that about."

Now, and only now, does the State Department admit that North Viet Nam has twice offered to come to peace talks.

The admission has not come with candor. It has been prodded out by stages in response to strong factual stories by respected U.S. reporters.

PEACE TALKS
First, CBS commentator Eric Sevareid revealed that the late Adlai Stevenson told him just before he died that United Nations Secretary General U Thant arranged peace talks in Rangoon a year ago, but the State Department rejected them.

Later, on Feb. 24, 1965, U Thant stated "I have presented certain ideas of my own to some of the principal parties involved in the question of Viet Nam. I have even presented concrete ideas and proposals."

White House press secretary George Reedy said next day, "The President has received no proposal from U Thant."

Last week the State Department admitted there had in fact been a peace feeler.

That admission alone was sufficient to throw Washington into an uproar. Senator Richard Russell, influential chairman of the Senate armed services committee, said he was "amazed" and intends to investigate why the peace feeler was rejected.

He will not have far to look. Last fall the war was going very badly and the Saigon government might easily have collapsed if a peace move had been made. Also the U.S. election campaign was at its height and President Johnson was being accused of softness towards Communism.

Peace talks might have cost votes and to be fair, the U.S. was not yet committed to seek peace, only to continue the war until the North Vietnamese agreed to leave their neighbors alone.

By the following April, Johnson had stepped up the war and needed to offset this by a peace appeal, which he made.

PEARSON'S FILE
Canada's Prime Minister Pearson, among others, suggested he halt the bombing of North Viet Nam as an inducement to the Communists to negotiate.

Mr. Johnson did this—for five days in May—and later let it be known that he did it only to please his allies, knowing in advance that it would fail.

The second surprise admission of last week was that the bomb moratorium might not have failed. David Schoenbrun, a Paris correspondent for 20 years, said the North Vietnamese again offered peace talks during the moratorium, and were rejected once more.

The State Department agreed there had been an offer, made through the French government but it had not been "unconditional" and had been made a few days after the bombing was resumed.

A train from Moldavia brought 170 tons of top-grade tomatoes to the capital. "We do not need them," the deputy director of the vegetable-receiving station told those making the delivery.

They were ordered to take them to Kruglov Pole, four days' journey from Moscow. There the workers took their time unloading the shipment and by then most of the tomatoes were spoiled.

At the other end of the scale, inspection procedures and bureaucracy also take their toll.

In the Zaporozhne district of the Ukraine, for example, trade workers are said to be over-strict in grading vegetables. As a result good produce is often rejected for marketing.

A trade organization sent a load of cucumbers back to the Dneprovsky state farm as sub-standard. Two days later the same cucumbers were accepted and sold as first-class produce by a food store.

Other cucumbers rejected by the Zaporozhne trade organization were bought as top-grade produce by a Leningrad agent who later came back to the collective farm and asked for more.

Roll Of Married Women Today To Be Topic Of Guest Speaker

The sixth of an interesting series of inter-faith lectures entitled "Marriage for Moderns" will be held on November 29 in the Kelowna secondary school at 7:30 p.m. with Mrs. G. A. Pottery as the guest speaker.

These interesting lectures are sponsored jointly by the Anglican, Baptist, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian and United Churches of Kelowna, and are for all married people and those about to be married.

Mrs. Pottery's subject will be the "Role of Married Women in the Modern World." She will discuss a number of interesting points brought up in Betty Friedan's book "The Feminine Mystique," women's desire to escape from the four walls of their homes; their desire for more self-expression; and the lack of understanding and appreciation of their viewpoint demonstrated by so many husbands.

The series will be concluded on December 6 with a final lecture on "Faith and Marriage" by a member of the clergy.

AROUND TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bruce Smith and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Shaw returned from a month's holiday in the Orient. After spending 10 days visiting interesting points in Japan, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who left the Okanagan ahead of their friends, joined the Shaws in Hong Kong where they enjoyed the next two weeks visiting old friends. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, who lived for a number of years in Hong Kong prior to the war, were interested to find how much life in Hong Kong today resembled their former life in Shanghai. On leaving Hong Kong they flew on to Tokyo, Japan, and returned to Kelowna after a two-week visit via Hawaii where they stopped off for several days enroute.

Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Carruthers returned from Vancouver over the weekend. While at the Coast Dr. Carruthers attended a two-day seminar on Continuing Medical Education at the University of British Columbia.

Dyck, Maurice Meale, Len Snowsall, Robert Hare, Austin Warren, Eric Lund, Harold Goss, Dudley Pritchard, Bill Black, D. Tarves, W. Lafare, G. Silvester and R. Kent.

ANN LANDERS

Romeos Do Not Play Housemother To Kids

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a blue-eyed brunette raised on a farm near Alpena, Michigan. I came to Detroit, got a job as a secretary and fell in love with a prominent executive in the automobile industry. Greg was evasive about where he lived but I never pushed it. Yesterday he telephoned to say he had the flu and couldn't keep our date. I decided to surprise him with a honey and lemon syrup my grandfather used to make. I got his address from the office manager.

Greg was sick all right and when he opened the door, I saw he got a whole lot sicker. The first thing I noticed was a faint bluecast and some weird feather bedroon stippers. He said, "I know what you're thinking and you're wrong. That stuff belongs to a sweet kid from Sheboygan who is out of work and needed a place to stay. She'll be out of here tomorrow."

I called him a liar and left. When I got home the phone was ringing. He begged me to believe him. Would you?—EGG ON MY FACE.

Dear Egg: Would I believe your big-headed Romeo is playing housemother to a busted kid from Sheboygan? No, I would not. And neither should you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a dentist who is 86 years old and have been practicing since 1903. Your column on how some dentists handled emergencies was fascinating.

I have had many emergency calls and I've never turned away a patient in pain, even though another patient had to wait. My most memorable experience occurred many years ago. It was 1:00 a.m. on a bitter cold night. A patient called, and he was in agony and asked me to meet him at my office and give him some relief.

I got out of bed, dressed in the warmest clothing I could find and headed for the office. After I gave him an injection of local anesthetic he smiled broadly and said, "Thanks a million, Doc, I've had this darned toothache for three weeks and it feels better now than it has in all that time."

I didn't say what I was thinking, but it wasn't easy to keep quiet.

I have read your column regularly and I think you give some really level-headed advice.—DR. H.C.F.

Dear Doctor: Thank you for a delightful letter. And how blessed is your community to have had you as a practicing dentist for 63 years!

Dear Ann Landers: I am surprised at you—telling that woman to consider court action just because her husband hit her over the head with a suitcase.

After all, he was showing her that he cared.

This man probably was a little upset over something and he didn't really WANT to leave. He was only pretending that he wanted to leave—to test his wife's love.

I know how it is with my husband. Every once in a while he loses his temper and socks me. But I accept it as a compliment. If he didn't love me he wouldn't get so mad. Even though he has his little faults I would follow him to the end of the earth because I love him. Well—B's WIFE.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a boy who will be 18 in four weeks. I've been waiting for a long time for the day now that the big day is almost here. I don't know if I really want to go through with it. I am thinking about quitting school and getting a job.

My parents are divorced and Mom remarried two years ago. I can't stand her new husband and the feeling is mutual. I've always wanted to be an engineer but it would be a real rough go. Nobody is going to put me through college and I know I can't get a scholarship. My grades are just fair.

It seems like a waste of time to stay in school when I could be out making money. A buddy of mine quit six months ago. He makes $88 a week and has bought himself a car. I'm not asking for advice. I just want to know what you think.—RED.

Dear Red: I won't offer any advice but kids who have quit school have told me it was the dumbest move they ever made. Education is your handle on a more productive, more rewarding life. Without it you are stymied. That $88 a week job may be as far as you'll ever go—and as far as you'll deserve to go.

Now you spend the next two years of your life to determine what happens to you in the next 50 years. Stay in school. I promise, you'll never regret it.

Macdonnell-Sahli Ceremony Held In St. Theresa's Church

St. Theresa's Catholic Church, in Rutland was the scene of a pretty late fall wedding when Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sahli of Rutland, became the bride of James Elwyn Macdonnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Macdonnell of East Kelowna.

Rev. Father Flynn officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the soloist, Mrs. Kelly Slater, sang Cesar Franck's "Panis Angelicus" and Schubert's "Ave Maria" accompanied by Mrs. William Drinkwater who was organist for the occasion.

The bride was lovely in a white lace and scalloped edged ballroom length gown and train, with an illusion veil which fell from a headpiece of tiny seeded pearls. Her bouquet was a beautiful arrangement of talisman roses.

Young Jazz Pianist Teaches Music To Mentally Retarded

NEW YORK (AP)—Richard Weber remembers it as a "pitifully crude" Christmas card. But he says it changed his life.

Weber was given the homemade card by a 15-year-old mentally retarded boy who admired his talents. He was a popular, young jazz pianist then.

"When that boy handed me the card, something inside me changed," Weber recalled. "I suddenly realized how self-centered my life was and I vowed to do something about it."

That was seven years ago.

Today, far from the small Illinois town where he was handed the card before giving a Christmas wreath to a mental institution, Weber has set into motion at Columbia University Teachers College a revolution in the education of severely mentally retarded children.

He devised a six-note method of instructing the mentally retarded in the playing of musical instruments, using letters on sheet music which correspond to letters pasted on the keys of a piano.

CONDUCTS CLASSES

Weber, 38, is working on his doctorate in music at Columbia and conducts regular weekly music classes for mentally retarded children as part of his research for the degree.

Among his pupils is Peter Connolly, 21, a mentally retarded youngster who, up to several weeks ago, couldn't still at a piano, much less play a tune.

"Today, Peter walks up to the piano or takes his clarinet and he plays such tunes as Jingle Bells, Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star, and many others," said the boy's widowed mother, Catherine Connolly.

"But it doesn't end there," she said. "Probably the biggest benefit for Peter is the fact that at long last he realizes he can do something. He feels needed and wanted among other people."

EASIER TO MANAGE

"Scorpio is hyperactive," she said. "Until these lessons came along there was nothing that could hold his attention for over a few seconds."

"Now, he is much different. I don't say he is normal. He'll never be that with the brain damage he had at birth. But he's so much easier to manage and he gets a little something out of life now."

Central Elementary PTA To Hold Annual Family Night And Bazaar

This year the Central Elementary PTA will hold their annual Family Night and Bazaar on December 2, at 8:30 p.m. in the activity room at the Central School.

The project for this year is to raise money for new costumes for the stage in the activity room, and it is hoped that the parents will again give their generous support.

In past years many worth while projects have been accomplished through funds raised at this bazaar such as projectors, film strips, screens, typewriters, books and magazines for the school which benefit all the young people.

The Central Elementary PTA has also contributed to various causes such as the Sunnyside PTA scholarship fund, which is awarded yearly to a student in School District No. 2, and also to the Student Assistance Association, who aid needy students to complete a vocation of their choice.

Films will again be shown for children as well as the usual games and there will be numerous booths such as home baking, a candy stall, used clothing, a fish pond, a cake walk and a costume show on a section, and tickets will be sold for the Christmas Gift.

Membership cards for PTA will also be sold at the bazaar so do not forget that at the PTA convention held in Victoria last April, Mrs. Ken Robson, president of the Central Elementary PTA, accepted a challenge from the Haida-Masset PTA president, Mr. Tracy, that the winner—the PTA president with the most members—would receive a ride down Bernard avenue in a wheelbarrow pushed by the loser during the PTA convention to be held in Kelowna this coming April. You really should support the membership drive and assure your president of the ride.

The words are important because it's the story that really matters, says Mrs. Fowler. The tune is merely a vehicle to carry the story. A history graduate, she says she's learned more actual history from the ballads than from any course offered.

Touring Southern Ontario, Mrs. Fowler collected enough material on tape to produce a book, "Traditional Singers and Songs From Ontario," just published by the Folklore Association, Markham, Pa.

"It's a labor of love, really," she said. "Except for radio programs there really isn't much money in it."

Because the Peterborough area was settled quite early and had a large Irish makeup, it is one of most fertile grounds for her material.

SUN FIGHTS TO KEEP WARM IN WINTERY SCENE

The sun looks as though it is having a hard job to keep warm in this wintery scene taken at Schleppe's Slough, at Glenmore. The first heavy fall of snow caused havoc on the roads but left little doubt in the minds of the artistic that without the mantle of white each year a great deal of beauty would be missed. — (Courier photo by Kent Stevenson)

Breakwater At Ok. Centre May Be Winter Works Job

WINFIELD — Arrangements were made to hold the annual meeting and election of officers on Dec. 16, at a well-attended meeting of the council of the Winfield - Oyma - Okanagan Centre, held in Duck Lake Inn. A nominating committee composed of H. Butterworth, H. Wachnicki, H. Bernau, A. Nagel and H. Taylor were appointed to bring in a slate of officers for the coming year. In addition to the president and vice-president, eight council members will be necessary; four from Winfield, three from Oyma and one from Okanagan Centre. A committee was also formed to make all the necessary arrangements for the annual banquet and installation of officers in January. A report was made by the special committee of a meeting held with a representative of the federal department of public works about proposed erection of a breakwater at Okanagan Centre this winter as part of the winter works program in an endeavour to arrive at the most suitable site. AGRICABLE SITE It was hoped that a site agreeable to both the department and this chamber will soon be arrived at, realizing the urgent need for a breakwater. The matter was left in the hands of the committee to complete. A copy of the report brought down by the water rights branch on the Winfield - Okanagan Centre Irrigation District was received. The chamber requested this survey on a water supply for Winfield. The report did not answer the question raised by this chamber with the result that a special committee was appointed to meet with the directors of the irrigation district in the hope that something can be done to supply water to properties not enjoying the privilege. It was decided that recognition be made of the "wonderful job" done by Jack Green on the area map to scale printed by the chamber for the benefit of visitors to the area during the past tourist season. Many favorable comments have been made about this map.

CO-OPERATION VITAL Letters were received from both Vernon and Kelowna chambers about closer co-operation of their tourist booths and the Winfield booth during the holiday season in seeing that visitors to this part of the Valley find the accommodation desired. Many other routine matters were disposed of and some matters were left to the incoming council.

"Maiden" Year A Success At Westbank Yacht Club

WESTBANK — From the enthusiasm at Westbank Yacht Club's winter dance and social held Nov. 19 aboard the "Purser," and at previous events, members are confident that interest in the annual meeting, scheduled for Nov. 20, will be just as keen. Friday's "Western" was fun, with everyone in typical garb, and though there were limitations as to "no brasses aboard please," one of these — a sort of Trojan horse, perhaps? — was smuggled in somehow, to the music of "The Old Grey Mare." Guests were re-assured, however, by the sign it bore, announcing that it was "OK, this is a house-broke!" Barbecueed hamburgers topped the evening off in fine outdoor style.

Other events: the carnival held earlier in the month, with games for all ages and the first annual Halloween masquerade, was enjoyed and the Christmas season will open Dec. 10 with the club's first annual Snow Ball. Later in the month the ladies auxiliary will sponsor a kiddies' Christmas, which will include an early visit from Santa.

The annual meeting Tuesday will include Commander Allan McLeod's report; committee reports and election of officers, and will be held aboard the "Purser" at 8 p.m.

Acknowledging that the Yacht Club's first year has been good one, the executive reminds members that to equal, and it is hoped make the second one even better, continued support from the large membership will be required.

The "Purser" has been "winterized" and Friday night dances are regularly enjoyed. On each Saturday the club is open from two to 12 p.m., with the ladies' auxiliary serving coffee and sandwiches Fridays and with entertainment available Saturdays. The executive has worked hard launching the "Purser" — it has been a good season aboard and there is lots more fun to come, with the first season ending New Year's Eve with the first annual New Year's Eve Frolic.

News Of Civil Service Raise "Held Until Strike Settled"

OTTAWA (CP) — Informed sources say the government has delayed the announcement of salary increases for some 75,000 civil servants so it wouldn't add complications to the two-day strike that threatened British Columbia.

The sources said the announcement could have been made this week, but in the face of the threat of a general strike in B.C. it was delayed. Revenue Minister Benson told reporters Tuesday that the announcement could be expected well before Christmas. He said recommendations of the staff associations were still being analyzed.

The sources in a position to know, say that treasury board, which approves civil service increases, would normally have reached a final decision on the increases for the civil servants in groups A and B.

But it was decided not to bring down increases, which might not satisfy all demands, at a time when it could result in a widened strike in B.C.

U.S. Changes Stockpile Role And Now Has Price Hike Crimp

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government now has altered the role of the $4,100,000,000 national stockpile of key commodities so that it will serve as an economic balance wheel as well as a military weapon. That balancing use was not stressed in the various laws that began accumulation of supplies of 77 strategic commodities in 1939. The stated purpose of the stockpiles was to guarantee strategic materials for national defence needs. But President Johnson's administration has put the full weight of the stockpiles behind the administration's economic guideposts for the booming peacetime economy.

During the last two weeks a government announcement that it would release 200,000 tons each of aluminum and copper from the stockpiles served to force major producers of both metals to rescind price increases.

With much less fanfare the government had been selling tin, lead and zinc this year. The sales have served to keep prices of those metals, which are in tight supply internationally, from soaring.

Repeatedly, the government has said certain price rises lead to inflation. It has established guideposts defining any price or wage increases in excess of

U.S. Finds Great Difficulty In Controlling Dollar Outflow

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States is finding the going harder again in its effort to hold down the outflow of dollars.

Business critics say more dollars are leaving the country than are returning because the U.S. government is pinching off their opportunity to make money abroad.

Government officials reply that unless overseas investing is cut still more now and the dollar is stronger, future opportunities in other lands will be 10 times harder for business to come by.

America's tourists are spending more dollars abroad this year than last and U.S. corporations are investing more overseas, although often borrowing from foreigners to do it.

Imports are rising faster than exports despite government peep talks to U.S. corporations to try to sell more abroad. Bankers put the volume of loans to foreigners but say they can't do more along this line.

Direct corporate investment abroad is running close to $2,000,000,000 in 1954, against $1,500,000,000 in 1953. To hold down dollar outflow at the government's request, U.S. corporations have increased their foreign borrowing to finance such expansion. Higher interest rates abroad cut in on their profits. Some businessmen complain that in the meantime their foreign competitors still have access to the lower interest rates of the U.S. money market.

BIDDING QUOTE
Partner bids One Diamond, next player passes, neither side vulnerable. What would you now bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠KJ75 ♥Q773 ♦75 ♣Q4
2. ♠KQJ5 ♥Q75 ♦75 ♣KQ98
3. ♠KJ75 ♥Q773 ♦75 ♣KQ98
4. ♠KQJ75 ♥Q773 ♦75 ♣KQ98

1. One heart. The bids to consider are a heart, a spade or a notrump. A notrump response should be dismissed because it would violate the general rule of trying to find a major suit fit before attempting notrump. Ignoring this rule could easily prove fatal in many hands.

There is good reason for preferring a heart response to a spade response. In hands where you plan to bid only once—unless partner forces you to bid again—you use the step system. That is, you bid the lower suit first.

The advantage of this method is apparent here. If you responded one spade, your side might never discover a 4-4 heart fit if it existed. By responding one heart, you can not only find the possible heart fit, but also leave room for partner to bid a spade and thus find the major suit fit.

2. Two clubs. Game is likely, but though not certain. The best you can do in hands of this type is identify your distribution and high-card values as accurately as possible and let partner do the rest. In line with this you bid two clubs, planning to bid two spades over the probable rebid of two diamonds. This tells partner that your hand is worth two bids (probably 11 to 12 high-card points) and that your clubs, having been bid first, are longer than your spades. What happens next depends on what partner does.

3. One heart. This is a more illuminating response than a jump to three diamonds, which the hand is easily worth. The heart response won't sound like much at this point, since it could be based on a six-point hand, but you intend to bring out the big guns later, after partner has rebid over one heart.

4. Three notrump. High cards are very important in bridge, but good distribution, or the lack of it, cannot be ignored in appraising the value of a hand. The worst possible distribution is 4-3-3-3, and you have to be careful not to overrate such hands even when they contain great high-card strength.

A jump response to three notrump is clearly indicated. This bid identifies a balanced hand, 16 or 17 high-card points, and strength in all suits. Obviously three notrump suggests a slam if partner has excess values, but it is by no means a forcing bid.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

In domestic affairs and business matters, this day will be better for routine than it will be for new enterprises. Personal interests should prove stimulating, however, since stars shine on romance, group activities and entertainment of all types.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, where both career and financial matters are concerned, you are about to reap a magnificent harvest for past efforts. As at this past Monday, you entered an excellent planetary cycle which will last, not only for the balance of 1955, but for a year or more longer.

The step-up in your occupational life is in the making now, and should continue steadily until December 20th—a period which will spark still further advances during the last week in January, throughout May (an excellent month for both employers and employees) and the entire months of August and September, as well as the first two weeks in October, by which time you should have achieved gratifying recognition and additional prestige.

Best periods for finances (and all are excellent): The first 10 days in December, the first three weeks of January, the first 10 days of February, the first week of July, mid-August and the entire months of September and October. Do not engage in risky monetary doings during late February, in March, or the first three weeks of April, however. You wouldn't win! And do watch the budget next November, no matter how stable your finances, since you may run up against some unexpected expenses.

Along personal lines: Best periods for romance (though they may not be as serious as the first three weeks of April, May and late August. Most auspicious period for taking a long journey: July 1st through September 30th. You may take several short trips throughout the year, quite possibly in connection with business, however. A child born on this day will be endowed with a fine intellect, self-reliance and extraordinary ambition—which he will be quite capable of achieving.

News Item: Bucks lose to Penitence 4-3. The team's first game of the season last Saturday in Penitence. It wasn't a case of the Bucks losing but of the Penitence putting together a good game to edge by the Kelowna boys. However the boys should get back in the winning ways tonight when they tackle the Vernon Blades at Memorial Arena. Also don't look for the Bucks to lose very many games this year.

News Item: Vernon Panthers issue challenge to coast footballers.

The challenge was issued by Panthers and accepted by Chilliwack Frontiersmen. Vernon, playing in poor conditions, whipped the coast crew 34-0. Vernon showed why they walked through the Valley football league with a 10-0 record. It is not shameful for a crew such as the Kelowna Cubs or Immaculate Dons to be beaten by such a proved football team.

News Item: Portland and Victoria threaten to run away from the rest of the pack in the Western Hockey League. Hal Laycoe's Portland Buckaroos and the revamped Victoria Maple Leafs are running roughshod over the rest of the WHL. This can only hurt hockey in the entire WHL setup. With Los Angeles and Seattle having their troubles fan interest is not too healthy. Hockey News shows that the attendance figures in Seattle and Portland are not what they have been in the past two years. San Francisco and Vancouver form the mid-point of the league and have been drawing well. Vancouver, showing they want NHL hockey have had three or four filled houses. Unheard of in the past years.

News Item: West Point man named Baseball Commissioner.

William D. Eckert was last week named commissioner of major league baseball. A retired airforce general his knowledge of baseball and its many ailments are the reason. This is another step that will lead to the renaissance of the American pastime. Baseball is hurting and instead of trying to secure a man with years of experience in the sport they name an amateur to guide their future. Rather a ridiculous move. This type of medieval thinking is also threatening the existence of the Oshanaag Mainline Baseball League. What has happened since the OMBL meeting Nov. 17? Exactly nothing.

News Item: Canadian football to study problems. Canadian football has earned $20,000 to have a group study the playing of the game and what can be done to make it a more exciting game to watch. The group will study ways and means of turning more Americans into the Canadian game. They will study ways of forcing teams to better their stadium facilities. They will study ways to improve Canadian football's image with the public. They will also study ways of improving the calibre of football players being developed by minor programs throughout the nation. Progressive thinking such as this can only lead to improvement of their product.

News Item: Zeno Kars named Most Valuable Canadian in Football.

Who is Zeno Kars? He is a journeyman football player with Hamilton T-Cats. He has suited with the T-Cats for 10 years.

His play over the years has not been spectacular. In Calgary we have a young fellow named Larry Robinson. For two consecutive years he has won the Western Football Conference scoring race. This year Larry was named an all-star. Yet he lost the Brimley Award as the best Canadian Football Player to Zeno Kars.

News Item: Hamilton advances to Grey Cup final in Toronto.

Hamilton has played heads up football all year long. Many critics thought Hamilton's so-so offence would give them trouble before the conclusion of the current football season. Such was not the case and Ralph Sazio and his Tabbies will be playing Winnipeg tomorrow in Toronto for the Grey Cup. What about those Winnipeg Blue Bombers? Dead last in 1964 with one win, one tie and 14 losses, they came on like gang-busters to shuntle the Calgary Stampede to the sidelines hanging over its head. What is the matter? The best team on paper but not the best on the field where it counts. Have we seen the last of Eagle Day and Lovell Coleman? Only time will tell but don't look for either Day or Coleman to be wearing the Red and White of Calgary next year.

News Item: Bob Taylor new Buck general manager. Congratulations to the Buck directors for such a wise choice. Bob has experience both in hockey and business which gives him a sound basis on which to run the Buckaroo machine. Since his appointment Bob has shown enthusiasm which would tire even the hardest of people. He makes an appearance at every practice, is constantly asking questions and is rapidly learning the inner workings of the Bucks. A good man, he'll do a good job.

News Item: Hamilton wins Grey Cup by 10 points? ? ?

New York Rangers Drubbed Black Hawks Edged By Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers had a rough time both on and off the ice Thursday.

Emile Francis, New York general manager, and 12 of his players were fined a total of $1,800 by Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, as a result of last Sunday's brawl in New York.

A few hours later Boston Bruins added to New York's wounds by walloping the Rangers 6-3 in one of two scheduled games. Chicago Black Hawks downed Detroit Red Wings 3-1 in the other contest to move back into a first-place tie with Montreal Canadiens. Reggie Fleming got the first of his two goals midway in the first period and 47 seconds later Tom Williams connected for his fifth goal of the year.

The Rangers quickly tied the count on Bob Nevin's 10th goal of the campaign and Garry Peters' third.

But in the second period, the Bruins came back and Bob Woytowich and Don Awrey, the only healthy members of Boston's regular defence corps, scored.

Parker MacDonald, a former

Red Wing, and Fleming added third-period markers.

Woytowich and Awrey teamed as a defence pair as defencemen Ted Green and Al Langlois were sidelined with injuries. Barry Ashbee, summoned from Hershey of the American League, and Ed Westfall, normally a right winger, formed the other pairing.

BOVIN HURTS KNEE Veteran Leo Bovin sat on the bench with a bruised knee after the first period.

A crowd of 13,909, the third straight sellout at Boston Garden, gave the Bruins a standing ovation for the final minute of the game.

At Chicago, Stan Mikita, last season's scoring champion, paced the Hawks' third-period scoring attack with two goals. The other Chicago scorer was Eric Nesterenko.

Andy Bathgate, traded to Detroit by Toronto in the off-season, scored the Wings' lone goal.

The defeat left the Red Wings in a tie with Boston at the bottom of the league standings. Hank Bassen replaced Roger Crozier in the Detroit nets, for the game.

Campbell Assesses Fines Totalling $1,800 For Melee

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League today assessed fines totalling $1,800 against Emile Francis, New York Rangers' general manager, and a dozen of his players.

The fines were levied as the result of a melee that occurred during the third period of the Detroit Red Wings-Rangers game in Madison Square Garden, New York, Sunday night. Francis was fined $250 for his part in the fracas. He approached goal judge Arthur Heilich and disputed a third-period goal scored by Detroit's Floyd Smith.

Fans sitting directly behind the New York goal decided to join in and surrounded Francis and Heilich. The melee was broken up when the New York players scaled the 10-foot barrier separating the goal from the ice surface to "rescue" their boss.

In addition to the $250 fine against Francis, the NHL president assessed fines of $100 against five of the six New York players on the ice at the time.

Only goaltender Ed Giacomin, among the on-the-ice contingent, escaped punishment.

An additional seven players were fined $150 each by the league—$100 of which is for invading the spectators' seating area. There is an automatic assessment of $50 for leaving the players' bench and joining in an on-ice fight.

Fined $100 were defencemen Harry Howell and Arnie Brown, and forwards Vic Hadfield, Earl Ingarfield, and John McKinnin, who were on the ice when the flare-up occurred.

SPORTS CAR RALLY SET FOR PENITENCE

The annual sports car rally of 1966 will start in Penitence Sunday at 11 a.m. Cars will gather at the Plaza Parking lot.

The rally will last three hours and all competitors, in order to make the rally a success, are required to have proper equipment in their automobiles. Length of the rally, over hill and dale will be 120 miles.

All sports car enthusiasts are welcome to enter the rally and it cannot be emphasized enough how important it is to have rally equipment at your disposal. Otherwise you will not be able to complete this event in a competitive manner.

Spokane Jets Nip Nelson 3-1

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Spokane scored two goals in the third period to defeat Nelson 3-1 in Western International hockey played here Thanksgiving night.

Gordie Turbitt and John Chow scored the winning goals, which were slammed in within just a little more than a minute of each other.

Charles Goodwin got the others. The victory placed the Jets in a tie for second place with Kimberley, two points behind league-leading Nelson.

Hugh Hooker scored Nelson's only goal, in the first period.

John Strong, Kelowna Buckaroos scoring ace dropped a notch in the Okanagan Junior Hockey League scoring race in games up to November 20.

Last week John was tied for second place but Eric Shishido moved ahead and now holds down second place, two points ahead of Strong.

Garth Rizzuto and Lynn Swanson maintained their spots in the top ten. Rizzuto is eighth and Swanson tenth.

Kelowna's netminders continue to run far ahead of their competition. Alie Hammings leads the OJHL goalkeepers with a 2.25 goals against average and Terry Lawrenson is second with a 3.00 average.

Queen Contestants Stage Impromptu Curling Match

TORONTO (CP)—While British Columbia Ladies didn't make it to the Grey Cup football championship this year, Miss B.C. Lion Thursday was a curling victory for the West.

Brenda Ann Bryan of Vancouver skipped her western rink to a 4-3 victory over the East in an abbreviated match between contestants for the Miss Grey Cup title. She raised a front stone in for winning shot with her last rock.

None of the nine girls had curled before, said Bob Morrow, Terrace Club manager.

"But none had any trouble throwing the stones." The master of ceremonies at Thursday night's Miss Grey Cup skating party in front of the new city hall asked the beaus among some 1,000 spectators "not to handle the merchandise."

They didn't. The nine Miss Grey Cup contestants spent 15 minutes skating together alone or with children.

Buckaroos After Winner Tonight Against Vernon

Kelowna Buckaroos attempt to get back on the winning road tonight when they tangle with the Vernon Blades at Memorial Arena in Kelowna.

Last Saturday the Bucks lost their first game of the year in Penticton 4-3 to the hometown Broncos.

Kelowna's task tonight will be harder as two of their defencemen are out with injuries. Don Hebert is out for at least a week with a bruised shoulder. Don suffered the injury in practice Wednesday night when checked by Len Nyland.

Drew Kitch is out for two games with a hip injury suffered last week in the Bob Gordano Memorial Hockey Game. Drew had X-rays taken Thursday and the Buck brass are anxiously awaiting results of the X-rays.

Cosch Don Culley will again be juggling his lineup as the Bucks try to get back in the winner's circle.

In goal tonight will be Terry Lawrenson. Lawrenson has impressed thus far with a good 3.00 goals against average.

On the blueline, Culley will be going with Dave Haley, Len Nyland and Greg Scriven. Dave Cousine will see action both at defence and at forward.

The forward lines will not be known until game time. However, it looks like Bill Bell, Mike Meehan and Dave Couves will stay together on one line. It also appears that Mike Darnbrough, staff.

John Strong and Terry Strong will form another unit. Terry could also be used on defence if the need arises.

Garth Rizzuto, Lynn Swanson, Marcelle Verne and Reg Saunders form the other line. How they will be alternated in any one's guess.

Vernon has not had any luck against the Bucks so far this season. Kelowna has beaten Vernon twice in their own backyard by scores of 3-1 and 4-3. Here in Kelowna, the Bucks downed the Blades 5-2.

Vernon will be relying on Dale Sorochuk to get them their first win of the year. So far Vernon has tied one game and lost all their others. Others to watch for on the Vernon team include Ivan Malenok at forward and Norm Schiman, goalie.

Game time tonight at Memorial Arena against the cellophane Vernon Blades is 8:30 p.m.

Tomorrow night Kelowna travels to Kamloops for the third time in the young season. Kamloops, like Vernon, have yet to beat the Bucks. Kamloops however will have their big game prepared for Saturday's game. Dale Sandybe and Eric Shishido are running one-two in the Okanagan Junior Hockey League scoring race, and should give the Bucks a run for their money tomorrow night in the Hub City.

Next home action for the Bucks will be against Kamloops next Friday night.

Game time tonight at Memorial Arena against the cellophane Vernon Blades is 8:30 p.m.

Lack of Cup Whoopie Puzzles Torontonians

TORONTO (CP)—Where's all the Grey Cup whoopie? Toronto was wondering today if it will materialize at all.

There were a few signs Thursday night of impending excitement as fans arriving from out of town lined up at hotel desks to claim rooms.

But Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers clash in the East-West football final at 1 p.m. EST Saturday, and that means the fans will have to park their pre-game high-jinks into tonight.

Youngsters peddling team ribbons at downtown streets Thursday night and reported sales slow. They were about the only Grey Cup enthusiasts outside the hotels.

A man waving a white 18-gallon hat led a knot of huggable Westerners into the Royal York Hotel and shouted "Where's the bar?"

He found it and disappeared quickly, bringing an end to one of the few spontaneous outbursts of gaiety so far this week.

The Toronto Junior Board of Trade, organizer of the Grey Cup Festival which started Wednesday, staged a skating party in front of city hall Thursday night and attracted a crowd of about 1,000 which politely applauded world figure skating champion Petra Burke of Toronto.

NOT LIKE 1965 It was a far cry from 1965 when Calgary Stampeder supporters set the pace for Grey Cup celebrating when they stormed Toronto and whopped it up, starting a couple of days before the game.

A special Air Canada flight from Winnipeg arrived Thursday night with 130 fans on board. Another, carrying 131 fans, is scheduled to arrive tonight. But special trains from Winnipeg, Hamilton and Ottawa aren't due until Saturday morning.

Western fans who drifted in before Thursday began lining up to claim game tickets they reserved with Western Football Conference clubs. The Blue Bombers had 3,000 tickets to dispose of and business manager Terry Hind said all but about 100 will be snapped up. Any left unclaimed will go on public sale at the stadium just before game time.

Rain hit Toronto Thursday afternoon and the weatherman said a storm could bring rain or even snow, for Grey Cup day.

Groundskeepers at CNE Stadium got the tarpaulin down on the field just before Thursday's rain started and said it will probably stay there until Saturday morning.

Meanwhile, Toronto bookies reported a "load of money" was bet on the Blue Bombers Thursday but the odds on the game remained unchanged. The Tiger-Cats are favored by four points.

MOBY DICK HITS BACK

VLADIVOSTOK (P)—Tass reports a large sperm whale harpooned by the whaling ship Trikon turned around and rammed the vessel. The engines died and could not be started again, so the Trikon had to be towed back to port.

Montreal Writer Accuses Trimble Of Beating Him

MONTREAL (CP)—The Star says in a sports page story that the Montreal writer Jim MacDonald was recovering from injuries suffered in a beating in Toronto where football personalities and fans are gathering for Saturday's Grey Cup game.

The Star says MacDonald identified his assailant as Jim Trimble, deposed coach of Montreal Alouettes, and quoted Trimble in a telephone call today to Star sports editor Harold Atkins as saying:

"I am sorry for all this. I wanted to call you. I am sincerely sorry for what happened the other day. I wanted to tell you and I would like to talk to you."

The Star story adds:

"MacDonald was hit in the eye, necked multiple bruises, rib damage and suspected kidney injuries is resting in his hotel room."

STARTED IN HOTEL

"The incident started in the hotel, and took place early Thursday morning between 1 and 2 a.m."

"It almost overshadowed the Grey Cup game for news value among media men."

"MacDonald explained that he exchanged his first words with Trimble in a hospitality suite of the Royal York Hotel."

"Then he grabbed me by the lapels of my jacket and pushed me against the wall a couple of times. I still don't know why."

"This incident was witnessed by Hal Walker, a Toronto public relations man."

SCENE SHIFTS

"A few moments later the two left the hotel on a short taxi ride to the waterfront."

"Montreal Star photographer Adrian Lunney saw the men leave in a taxi."

"It was at the waterfront, according to MacDonald, where Trimble struck him several times."

"I really didn't know what was happening to me," MacDonald said.

"I couldn't understand it. I asked him (Trimble) why he was doing this. He didn't answer. He hit me again."

"According to MacDonald Trimble forced him back into the waiting taxi and the two returned to the hotel. Trimble made it clear to MacDonald that he was taking him to the suite occupied by the former Alouettes coach."

"MacDonald said: 'There were a few people with us on the elevator, but I didn't appeal to anyone for help. Maybe I should've. What I did though was to run off the elevator when it stopped a couple of floors below Trimble's suite. I was scared. I ran down a few flights of stairs, went through the exit door—and ran right into Trimble who had followed me by another route.'"

'KEPT HITTING ME'

"It was in Trimble's suite, The Star says, that a major part of the beating took place."

"He hit me and kept hitting me," said MacDonald. "When I fell he kicked me and I covered my head with my arms as best I could, but a lot of punches landed on my face, my arms and my body."

CANADIANS WHIPPED

Five Football Pioneers Feted at Cup Dinner

TORONTO (CP)—Five men were honored at the Grey Cup dinner Friday night for their contributions to Canadian football.

They are Don McPherson of Regina, Bob Reid of Toronto, Barry O'Brien of Ottawa, George McMahon of Calgary and the late Jesse Fitton of Toronto.

Guest speaker at the five-plate dinner was Indian Jack Jacobs, one-time quarterback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers. He played in two losing Grey Cup games, the first in 1959 when the Bombers lost 13-6 to the Toronto Argonauts and the second in 1963 when Winnipeg bowed 13-6 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

O'Brien, 51, is a past president and director of Ottawa Rough Riders and a past president of the Eastern Football Conference. He's the son of J. Ambrose O'Brien of Ottawa, a founder of the National Hockey League and a former owner of Montreal Canadiens.

Born in Montreal, O'Brien captained Newman High School's football team and was an all-state player in Lakewood, N.J., played intermediate football for University of Toronto in 1936-37, joined the Royal Canadian Navy in 1939 and left in 1945 as lieutenant commander.

Born in Moyn, B.C., McMahon served with the Canadian Scottish Regiment in 1938-39 and was with the British Columbia Regiment in 1942-43. He was educated at public schools in British Columbia, attended high school, Gonzaga University and Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. He was active in the scouting and investment business before entering the oil business.

INTERPRETING WORLD EVENTS

De Gaulle's Wooing U.K. Not Seen As Surprise

BRUSSELS (AP) — French President de Gaulle's wooing of the British is seen by France's Common Market partners as a move to avoid giving up national sovereignty in a future Europe that might include Britain.

The fact that three years after blocking Britain's entry into the Common Market, de Gaulle showed friendship for its former opponent, Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath, does not surprise many in Common Market circles. They say French soundings toward Britain started right after the market crisis over farm prices in August.

Prime Minister Wilson says Britain is ready and willing to join the Common Market whenever possible, provided essential British interests are safeguarded.

This is roughly what de Gaulle wants. After the French walked out of market meetings last July, partly because they did not get satisfaction over the joint financing of French farm surpluses, de Gaulle said there could be no question of France abandoning any of her national sovereignty.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Merville, in a statement to parliament Oct. 20, spoke of "an overall review of the system of integration in the European community."

France wants a veto on any decision to be made in the community, and a powerful management instead of the present nine-man executive commission that has been the driving force toward an economically and politically integrated Europe.

CONDITIONS CHANGE
After meeting with Heath, de Gaulle this week told a cabinet meeting that "conditions that formerly obstructed the rapprochement of Britain and continental Europe are in the process of easing."

Common Market circles commented that when France voted Britain's membership in January, 1963, a major French objection had been the British-American defense tie, which has not changed.

De Gaulle wants to pull out of NATO and build a French-led European defense system. It is France's five partners to be still waiting for a formal answer to their Oct. 24 invitation to France to join them at the negotiating table to try to solve the market's four-month-old crisis.

Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, as well as Italy, prefer legal powers for the management of a group which the stronger powers are likely to dominate. The market's other member is West Germany.

Eight years of experience also proved that greater progress was made in areas where community procedure was used than in fields where decisions were left to co-operation between governments.

Concert Pianist Myra Hess Dies

LONDON (AP) — Dame Myra Hess, 75, noted concert pianist, died at her home here Thursday night.

Dame Hess, who had given concert hours all over the world for many years, had been seriously ill for several months. The cause of death was not given. She had been regarded as the greatest woman pianist of her day and in the front rank of living pianists of either sex.

Dame Hess made her last public appearance at London's Royal Festival Hall in September, 1961.

Twenty Million Britons Lack Bread Due To Bakers' Strike

LONDON (AP) — Most of the bakery shops in an area covering half of England where 20 million Britons live had no bread for sale today because of a strike by bakers.

Some 10,000 bakery workers went on strike Thursday morning, seeking a 10-per-cent pay increase. The basic wage is £11 10s ($34.50) a week. The workers are asking £15 ($45) a week.

The strike affected London, most of the surrounding counties, and Yorkshire, Lancashire, Nottinghamshire, the east Midlands and Gloucestershire. The bakers do not plan to return to work before Monday.

But there was some hope today for progress in settling the strikes which are being staged for a few days at a time in various parts of the country.

Economics Minister George Brown, whose department has urged a pattern of not more than 3½ per cent in pay increases to keep prices stable, held talks Thursday with two leaders of the bakers' union.

Alfred Halliday, general secretary of the union, said afterwards: "We can now see a gleam of light at the end of the tunnel."

He said the union executive council will meet Sunday to discuss the situation. Long lines of people formed from an early hour Thursday outside bakery shops. Most shops rationed each customer to one loaf.

BUILDING TOOK AGES

It took from 1263 to 1258 to build London's Westminster Abbey.

Canada Strangled Claims Gagliardi

EDMONTON (CP) — Highway Minister Gagliardi of British Columbia said Thursday Canada is being "strangled" despite its vast natural resources, by a lack of proper leadership in government.

"The time has come that the people of Canada should take a page out of the histories of Alberta and B.C. and elect a Social Credit leadership," he said.

Alberta has had Social Credit administration for 20 years and B.C. for 13.

Mr. Gagliardi told a public meeting during the national Social Credit convention that these provinces demonstrate the ability of Social Credit governments to develop natural resources.

He said the party might find itself stronger in federal politics if it placed less emphasis on its monetary theory and more on its free enterprise principles.

Indian Politicians In Accord On One Point Foreign Policy Bad

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian politicians seem unanimous these days on one point: Something is wrong with India's foreign policy.

This unanimity springs from an awareness that India's non-alignment policy for years held most of the world at arm's length and that now, when it is on bad terms with China and Pakistan, India has no close diplomatic friends.

Some Indian leaders strongly favor closer friendship with the Soviet Union. A smaller band advocates stronger ties with the United States.

Most of those who feel something is wrong merely want India to develop a new friendship, regardless of ideologies.

A sense of diplomatic isolation swept the government during the September war with Pakistan. Only Malaysia and newly independent Singapore openly supported the Indian cause. The United States, the Soviet Union and major Commonwealth partners, such as Britain and Canada, united to coax India and Pakistan into a ceasefire. Some Indian leaders were especially angered by Britain's neutral attitude.

Why did no power step up and be counted with India?

Parliament probed the question in a three-day debate on foreign policy and more than one speaker pointed at non-alignment as the villain.

M. R. Masani, leader of the right-wing Bharatiya party, put it this way: "Most nations are paying us back in our own coin, by remaining non-aligned in our disputes. This is the price we are paying for non-alignment."

Despite evidence that major revision of foreign policy may be in order, the government insists there will be no radical change.

Foreign Minister Swaran Singh, a tall, bearded Sikh, declared the only thing possible is "minor readjustment" occasionally.

He and Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri defended themselves as architects of better relations with neighboring Ceylon, Nepal and Afghanistan. To hear these small countries mentioned as diplomatic victories infuriated the opposition.

Acharya Kripalani, independent member of Parliament and an old voice in India's freedom struggle, declared:

"For the last 18 years, India's foreign policy has been misconceived, miserably misconceived."

Tales Of Escape And Courage Told At Meeting Of Airmen

TORONTO (CP) — Forty-four airmen exchanged tales of escape and courage when they gathered for the first meeting of the Canadian branch of the Royal Air Forces Escaping Society.

The branch was formed to honor and help European families who saved the lives of Canadian airmen shot down during the Second World War.

The Canadian branch hopes to raise money for wartime benefactors who aided an estimated 140 Canadians.

Many of the European families are in desperate circumstances," says Earl Prince, a Pembroke, Ont. man who was shot down in Holland in 1942. We're 20 years late in getting together to help these persons who risked their lives for us."

Tales of escape and bravery were told by the airmen.

We had been shot down in broad daylight," said Arthur Kemp of Winnipeg. "I landed in a field not far from a French farmhouse. The family took us in and hid us in one of the bedrooms."

I've wondered ever since just what motivated these people to risk everything for us," says Joe Wright, a Toronto businessman downed over France in 1942.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Buy a 1966 Beaumont

Beaumont Custom Sport Coupe

It's pretty tough to think of practicality when you're face-to-face with a car as impressive as Beaumont. There's excitement in every line. Luxury is there too. Beaumont interiors have rich, color-keyed upholstery and wall-to-wall, deep-pile carpeting in most models. Performance? Beaumont's standard 120-horsepower thrifty six is smooth and quiet with plenty of "go". For high-performance excitement, available engines range up to a 360-horsepower V8! Then you can get a four-speed floor shift or an automatic, in addition to the standard three speed transmission—now fully synchronized! So Beaumont's beautiful...luxurious...and a performer. So what's so practical? The price. And the roominess. And the trim overall size. And the economical operation. And like that. So don't be dazzled just by Beaumont's beauty. Check its practical side. Then buy one.

Do you buy smooth whisky or smooth talk?

The difference is twenty-seven layers of hard maple charcoal. We filter Brown Jug through them drop by drop. Charcoal filtering is a slow process, but we're in no hurry. In fact when it's finished, we take the time to do it all over again. To make sure we have a smooth whisky to sell instead of just a smooth line of talk. The charcoal filtering story is printed on the back of every bottle of Gooderham's Brown Jug. Why don't you pick one up and read it sometime?

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whiskies since 1837.

At The Library

By BRYAN BACON

Roy Thomson of Fleet Street by Russell Bradton (Colins) is a classic rags to riches success story.

Starting life on the wrong side of the Toronto tracks in 1884 Roy Thomson left school to become a junior clerk in a small business. He did well, but not well enough to justify his boast of becoming a millionaire before the age of thirty.

After an abortive spell as an unlikely prairie farmer, Thomson returned to sell radios in Northern Ontario—an area notorious for poor reception. Undeterred he stimulated his sales by opening his own radio station. Finding the press opposed to his new venture he bought the offending newspaper for a down payment of $200.

HARD WORK

This is perhaps the most absorbing part of the story: the constant battle between income and expenditure, the lack of accommodation, the lack of qualified personnel, the lack of technical know-how, the lack of capital. But through an unstinting capacity of hard selling and the possession of an open face which looked good for a further extension of yet another loan, Thomson not only got by, but seemed to thrive on it.

This uncompromising determination to sacrifice leisure and pleasure—a ruthless drive to succeed at any price—was also a sacrifice for those surrounding him, not least for the Thomson family.

If you were to make a graph of Thomson's success, the big boom upwards to the top of the page would not be plotted until the post war years. The war meant a period of enforced consolidation of his properties but in 1946 by floating a debenture issue, Thomson was in the position of enjoying virtually unlimited credit. He could as Bradton says "rampage through the weary and death-duty depleted ranks of his country's small-town publishing families."

OKANAGAN

By the time he reached the Okanagan, however, it was 10 years later and he was so engrossed with controlling Scottish TV ("a licence to print your own money") that the Daily Courier in Kelowna and the Penticton Herald are merely listed as headnotes to Chapter 30.

Thomson's ambitions grew as his achievements increased. He wanted more than anything else to have a title and unashamedly petitioned everyone from Macmillan to Diefenbaker. He began to broaden his social circles. He employed—to the ire, scorn and sour grapes of Fleet Street—the Queen's brother-in-law. On learning that, although he might get the governor-generalship at Diefenbaker's instigation, he could never fulfill his main ambition as a Canadian, Thomson applied for British citizenship. He thoughtfully ensured that Macmillan was aware of his new status. The next honors list contained his name.

REUNION

Since leaving school Thomson's reading has been confined to financial accounts and "who dunnits". His favorite music is "the sound of radio commercials at ten bucks a whack". His opinion of artists is qualified by the investment potential of their work. He would sleep at the Savoy and economize by eating at a truck driver's pull-up. He was worth at the last count, $300,000,000.

Roy Thomson owns communications media—radio, television, newspapers, periodicals, books—in five continents. In the underdeveloped countries his activities are thriving as a contribution to the democratic way of life as well as a contribution to Roy.

Thomson is not the old-fashioned press baron who used his papers for propaganda purposes. This is a good thing on the face of it. But Thomson is concerned only with an enterprise which pays and he lays down strict budget controls for his media. If the business runs at a loss something has to be done to improve the sales, i.e. broaden the base and make a wider appeal. I.e. equate the standards with the lowest common reader/listener/viewer multiple. Or it will be killed off.

Roy Thomson is now in his seventies. His son Kenneth is a shadowy figure about whom one would be pleased to know more. What are his beliefs? What are his prejudices?

Despite, or perhaps because of, his enormous wealth Roy Thomson emerges from this book as a sad and lonely figure.

Whether you thank God, or groan in despair, there is only one Roy Thomson. He has achieved the ultimate in everything that a free enterprise society applauds.

Within these terms of reference, he is an unqualified success.

PET

Parrots

Your parrot is certainly the pet with the longest life-expectancy. As such, he deserves the best of care and attention to make sure his life is happy as well as long. His general well-being can be greatly improved by giving some extra thought to his day-to-day living conditions.

In matters of feeding, it is important that he isn't "killed with kindness." Too often, his winning ways may tempt some visitor to your home to offer him foods that can be harmful, if not deadly, to a parrot. As a vegetarian, your parrot is only meant to eat seeds, fruits and greens. Fats and greasy foods, such as table scraps, can quickly make him unwell. If continued, such a diet will most certainly kill him. So always be alert to guard him from such types of food.

Drafts are another potential parrot killer. They are very prone to catching colds, a condition that is quite difficult to treat. His cage should be kept well out of direct drafts and away from any source of dampness. If he does show signs of having a cold, you would be wise to call in a veterinarian right away, rather than try to treat your pet yourself.

Parrots may be tropical birds, but that does not mean he should be left in a position where he cannot get any shade. In his jungle habitat, a parrot would seek shelter from the sun's rays. In his cage he has little control over shade, so you must do it for him. For it is a fact that parrots are actually subject to sunstroke, which can be fatal.

There never was a parrot that didn't have a very definite mind of his own. That being the case, individual birds vary in their taste towards bathing. Some love to dunk themselves in a shallow dish, others appear never to go near water of their own accord.

Whatever your parrot's attitude to bathing, he certainly should be provided with a shallow, rough textured dish from time to time. In hot weather, duplicate his rain-forest origins by lightly spraying him with lukewarm water. An ordinary plastic laundry spray bottle will do nicely for this.

Reviewing Movies Has Its Hazards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reviewing movies has its hazards, which Kevin Thomas says he discovered at the hands of singer Tommy Sands.

Thomas, 29, of the Los Angeles Times said Sands punched him several times Wednesday. He said Sands, 28, apparently was angered about Thomas' reviews of his performance in the film None But the Brave.

The review, published Feb. 19, said the film was actor-singer Frank Sinatra's debut as a director, adding:

"It's too bad he didn't go a step farther and avoid nepotism, but fathers will be fathers. Son-in-law Tommy Sands is hopelessly hammy as a green-horn lieutenant."

Sands at the time was married to Sinatra's daughter, Nancy. She was granted a divorce last July 28 on grounds of extreme cruelty.

CENTENNIAL MEMO

In 1877 officers of HMS Daring made examinations of the entrance to the Skeena River and gave their names to various points in that vicinity. There is a Daring Point on Kennedy Island.

LOVES HOME LIFE

Charlton Heston flew 10,000 miles just to have a weekend with his family while filming Khartoum in Africa.

Julie Andrews Finally Makes It

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At last Julie Andrews has made it to a contemporary film.

The Academy Award winner, who is the most modern of fair ladies, has spent her film career in period pieces: Mary Poppins (1964), The Americanization of Emily (1964) and The Sound of Music (1965).

Recently she finished a grueling location for Hawaii, in which she played a missionary wife of the 1830s. She enacted her death scene on a Tuesday. The next day she was in Universal City posing in Edith Head's modern designs for Torn Curtain.

"Oh, it's delicious to be playing an up-to-date girl in smashing smart clothes," she enthused.

But then, Julie is inclined to be enthusiastic about most everything. Even the long, troubled location in Hawaii had its silver lining for her.

"I must say it got terribly depressing for a while there," she admitted. "All those long waits for the weather to clear up, and the sand, and the scorpions—it got to you after a while."

"But I think it will all be worth the trouble. The script problems we had were resolved in a way that tightened up the story. George Roy Hill (the director) has done a simply marvelous job. I would certainly like to work for him again."

Torn Curtain is a breese for Julie. She is allowed to look her own lovely, up-to-date self, with a frosted-blond bouffant hairdo substituted for the boyish cut.

The role is not as rigorous as the others, although she and Paul Newman are chased by enemy agents hither and yon. Julie certainly escapes from trying as a nanny in this one. The production notes report in the opening scene "she is seen sharing a ship bunk with Newman while they discuss marriage plans."

No Man In Moscow Now For The "Post"

MOSCOW (AP) — Stephen Rosenfeld, Moscow correspondent for the Washington Post, has been ordered to leave the Soviet Union because his newspaper is publishing the Penkovsky Papers, Tass reported today.

The Soviet news agency said Rosenfeld's "continued presence in the Soviet Union was undesirable in view of the continuing of the anti-Soviet campaign conducted by his newspaper over the so-called 'Penkovsky Papers.'"

Oleg Penkovsky was a Soviet colonel executed for serving as a master spy for the West. A book purporting to be his diary was recently been published in the United States.

HIS BABY BRIDE JUST 77 YEARS

SEATTLE (AP)—William Payson Holt said Thursday he has taken a "baby bride" to share his future. Holt will be 102 next week. His bride is 77.

Holt, a Washingtonian since 1884, and Mrs. Karen Monrad, formerly of Chicago, were married by a justice of the peace last Friday. It was the fourth marriage for Holt, who has three children. Mrs. Holt has two children. The couple will live in a home for the elderly.

"Our families certainly don't need us any more," Holt said. "We're all alone and we have need for each other. I think we're going to be very happy."

Holt said he had needed "the companionship and help of a good woman."

"I've found it in my baby bride."

Treat yourself to a winter trip to the Kamloops Museum. This fine modern museum is part of the Museum-Library complex in the thriving inland city, and is open all year.

It would be wise to check in exact hours that the museum is open during the winter before making a special trip to see it. The address is Kamloops Museum, Seymour Street, Kamloops.

One great hurdle to overcome is the fairly long, steep stairs leading up to the new museum. There is a flight and one-half from the street floor, and this must prevent many people from enjoying the advantages offered by the attractive and efficient museum.

However, once you're at the top of the stairs, an inviting entrance opens out.

OLDEST BUILDING

First to catch the eye is a large wall space filled by the original Hudson's Bay Trading Post built at Kamloops. A sign over the door states "The Oldest Building in British Columbia." Visitors may step over the worn threshold and enter the interior of the trading post, where exhibits of articles used in trade are displayed, with some life-size figures to remind one of trade with the Indians at old Fort Kamloops.

People living in Kelowna may not know that we, too, have an old building used by the Hudson's Bay Company as a trading post. This is still standing on the Gulschean Ranch. Will we be able to preserve this as part of our Centennial Museum? The example of Kamloops Museum can serve as a guide for other places.

CONSTRUCTION

Visitors to Kamloops comment on the excellent construction of the museum-library building, which is kept shining and polished with modern equipment. The lighting is strong, eliminating the dark corners and musty feeling that we used to associate with museums.

Above all, the exhibits are well spaced, with ample room between the wall displays or exhibit cases. This gives the large museum room an orderly look, and invites the visitor to enjoy each exhibit at his leisure. There is no feeling of being pushed or overwhelmed by too much clutter.

BRAND MARKS

Among the exhibits of area history, there is a well-organized chart showing the brand marks of ranches near Kamloops, with each mark burned into the wooden background. There is a display by the B.C. Forest Service, with beautiful photographs of native trees and cross sections of their wood. The rock hounds in the city have organized several interesting and beautiful collections of rocks of British Columbia, and there are farm implements used by the early settlers.

Children are welcomed by a special alcove devoted to a table and comfortable chairs, with their own registration book. One glass case features articles of special interest for children, such as school copy-books of long ago, toys and articles loaned by children now living in Kamloops who are collectors of articles such as stamps, rocks, wildflowers and books.

You Just Need One Break...

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "They say that all you need in show business is one good break," growled Walter Matthau. "I've had 35."

The first 34 made him one of the most serviceable character actors in plays, films and television. The 35th seems to have made him a star.

To one big break of Matthau's career was The Odd Couple, the Neal Simon comedy which opened on Broadway late last season. The play in which Matthau and Art Carney co-starred as wildly incompatible apartment mates whose wives had left them, sparked what appeared to be a Walter Matthau appreciation drive.

"Don't ask me to explain it," said the actor. "I've starred in 35 plays, and nothing like this happened before. Everything seemed to fall in place. And, even without having a personal press agent, the publicity poured in."

For Matthau, the harvest of The Odd Couple was four movie scripts with starring roles.

SENT THEM BACK

"I sent them all back," he said. "Then Billy Wilder said he wanted me for a picture, but he hadn't written it yet. I said I'd do it."

The Wilder film turned out to be The Fortune Cookie, for which Matthau took a leave of absence from The Odd Couple. He plays Jack Lemmon's brother-in-law, an opportunistic lawyer who makes the most of a minor injury Lemmon admitted, in several light-years better than previous parts he has played in films Goodbye, Charlie, Charade, Miracle.

Matthau also offered television series in the wake of The Odd Couple.

"I could no doubt make about five billion dollars if I took one," he observed, "but that would mean doing piece work. That's why I left the factory: To get away from piece work."

It was an electroplating factory on Long Island, and he was employed to dip hand bags frames, wearing sneakers so he wouldn't get electrocuted. Matthau felt there were greater challenges for him, especially after appearing in every settlement-house play he could find. Matthau is a native New Yorker, a shambling man of 42 years, with a leathery, sardonic voice.

The Kelowna Paramount theatre will present a restricted Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton love story, a hootenanny and a gay romantic comedy of a Polynesian girl in a British public school, to movie-goers next week.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 29-Dec. 2, "The Sandpiper" will be shown at 7 and 9:10 p.m. nightly. There will be no admittance to persons under 18, the manager said.

Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3, 4, "Tamahine" is double-billed with "Hootenanny Hoot." Showings are at 7 and 9:30 p.m. "Hootenanny Hoot" only, will be shown at the 2 p.m. matinee Saturday.

"The Sandpiper" is the highly emotional love story of an unconventional woman living a nonconformist life and a married man of strong conservative background, whose passionate love affair comes close to breaking up the man's marriage and ruining his career.

Elizabeth Taylor is Laura Reynolds, who has chosen to lead an unfettered life as an artist, even spurning the offer of marriage from the man who has fathered her child. Burton is Dr. Edward Hewitt, an Episcopalian minister and headmaster of a private school, married to Claire (Eva Marie Saint) who is devoted to him.

Despite the explosive clash of the disparate personalities of Laura and Hewitt and his dislike of her beatnik friends, their mutual attraction is overpowering and their love inevitable.

"Tamahine" is the story of a 17-year-old Polynesian girl named Tamahine, who is sent to a British public school for an education. Her views on love and marriage shock all who meet her.

Tamahine causes an explosion when, at a dinner party for the dignified faculty members and their wives, she relates how her grandfather ate a Portuguese sailor as a birthday treat but did not enjoy him due to a bad stomach.

Tamahine outshines the undergraduates in shining up a tower and placing the traditional chamber pot on the steeple; she emerges the winner in a series of Sports Day events; and she proves herself an intrepid swimmer by rescuing her uncle when his punt capsizes.

"Hootenanny Hoot" by producer Sam Katzman, brings together some of the outstanding artists in this field of entertainment, among them the Brothers Four, Sheb Wooley, singer-guitarist Johnny Cash, the vocal and instrumental Gateway Trio, Judy Henske, one of the nation's most popular night club and concert folk-singers, George Hamilton IV, Joe and Eddie, Cathie Taylor and Chris Crosby, talented young son of Bob Crosby, making his motion picture debut.

This stellar aggregation sings, dances and performs masterfully in 13 specialty numbers highlighting the story of a New York television director whose marriage has gone on the rocks due to the fact that his beautiful wife, a TV producer, has permitted her career to take precedence over romance. The complications also involve the director's agent and one of the glamorous stellar performers of a touring hootenanny group. These roles are played by Peter Breck, as the director; Ruta Lee as his ex-wife; Joby Baker as the agent and Pam Austin as the entertainer.

A series of both dramatic and humorous situations take place before Miss Lee's eyes are opened to the fact that love is more important than a career and all the complications are ironed out in a rousing finale number, the Hootenanny Hoot, a colorful dance which teenagers are bound to take to their hearts.

Sixteen warriors returned from Kamloops Sunday night, tired and weary from the "Battle of the Bird".

They were the sixteen Kelowna shuttlers who travelled to the "Gateway to the Cariboo" city to compete in the Kamloops.

Mainline badminton tournament held Nov. 20 and 21. They were joined there by 82 others, making a grand total of 108 entrants, the largest number to have taken part in this tournament for some years and play continued far into Saturday night in order that the tournament could be completed before the birds (the self-propelled type) started twittering Monday morning. The Kamloops club rallied magnificently to accommodate this huge entry and with just a few exceptions in "B" flight play, final games were completed before Sunday midnight.

A large entry from the Coast and entries from areas that seldom follow the "tournament trail" helped to swell the number taking part.

The surprise package of the tourney came from the Merritt badminton club, which entered eight competitors in the various events. They were given a warm welcome which, it is hoped, will encourage them to enter other regional tournaments.

COAST PLAYERS

Vancouver and the Lower Mainland sent a fairly strong squad, among them Geoff Atkinson and Jack Sutherland, both of whom should be familiar to Kelowna badminton fans for their feats in the B.C. central tournament held annually in Kelowna. Other entries were received from Nelson, Prince George, Williams Lake and various Okanagan centres. Clubs to the south of Kelowna were not represented.

I confided a wish in my last column that we would see some new faces among the finalists and now I am wondering if perhaps I may have Aladdin's lamp by the tail.

Never mind the mixed metaphor—this is no time to observe the niceties of construction! True, the women's events in "A" flight went pretty well according to the gospel as it was written several seasons ago, but in at least two of the men's events — came the revolution!

Not a Dalin could be seen until the mixed doubles when Chris and Yvonne turned in their usual effective performance to win the event. Furthermore, the runner-up in both men's singles and mixed doubles, Orville Forgaard of Kamloops, has appeared only in "B" flight events up to now.

Only time and further tournaments will tell whether Orville will continue to be a threat in the "A" flight ranks but he has taken the first step. His achievement is the more remarkable when it is realized that the entries in both men's and women's events were unusually strong.

DEFENDABLE

Two dependable teams from Kelowna clashed in the men's doubles final with Ches Larson and Ted Wey's winning a "squeaker" in two sets from Bob Brooks and Fred Stevens. Bob and Fred were unable to capitalize on the crucial opportunities — maybe they should get together with the Calgary Stampeder to find out what happens.

Kelowna's quartet of juniors gave a very good account of themselves. Both Allen Larson and Bruce Stevens were well along in "A" flight events before they bowed out. Gillian Paynter reached the quarter-finals in ladies' singles before losing in three games to Joyce Robertson of Prince George.

It was in one of these three games that Gillian made what was possibly the shot of the tournament. While returning a drive, Gillian's racket slipped from her hand and crashed to the floor. Not one to give up easily, this Westbank miss snatched up her racket again just in time to return the shuttle and win the point. If you don't think that is difficult, try it sometime!

SINGLES CHAMP

Marlene Davies of Salmon Arm, who has never been seriously challenged in several years of singles play, again walked away with the singles trophy, then with partner Yvonne Dalin defeated a Vancouver pair to retain the doubles title.

With the Kamloops tournament a thing of the past, the tournament season can be considered officially launched. From now until April we will follow the one-a-month prescription. This prescription, if followed faithfully, should at least alleviate, if not cure, some of our badminton ills.

If you missed the Kamloops

NIMBLE Fingers

by Frances Hatfield

Baskets are special loves of mine. While Rupert Brooke writes of "white plates and cups, the strong crust of friendly bread, the rough male kiss of blankets" he overlooks baskets and so our loves diverge.

Nothing pleases me more than the ability to travel for a weekend with no more baggage than a capacious straw bag lidded and leather strapped which I bought in Mexico a few years ago. I feel unbearably snug alighting with this feather weight container while others bump down steps with awkward suitcases. However, my smugness does diminish a little under the onslaught of the texture of basket on my nylon and the height of the article seems particularly designed so that when carried by me it catches my innocent host or hostess behind the knees as we step along, a startling experience, to say the least.

ENDLESS TREASURE

Mexico provides a basket collector with endless treasure and pleasure, from rustic chairs all brightly painted and sporting prickly rush seats, those nylons again, to baskets almost as big as some of the European cars.

For fun they delight in making mad hats, and the sight of glowing, happy individuals returning home in a Canadian mid-winter, stepping off the plane wearing these fantasies, is particularly hard on the stay-at-home. My hat sports a jungle of palm trees, mice, rats, sunbathers, etc., all neatly woven and attached to the top of the wide brim.

SOBER THOUGHTS

Our own Indian basketry provides us with more sober thoughts in several ways.

The original use of many of the finest old baskets was ritualistic, the designs exquisitely developed to fit the shape of the whole as well as communicating information and atmosphere.

But the most sober aspect of all is the gradual fading away of this art. Today few young folk care to spend the time and effort called for to harvest and prepare the materials used in fashioning these works of art.

Some older people still produce a few a year, as in the case of an old lady on the west coast who makes a few for my craft shop. The cedar root and grasses must be gathered at just the right time of year she explains, then treated carefully and slowly to produce baskets which will really stand up under the use we give them as handbags and shopping baskets.

Mid-summer found me short of her fine work so I wrote for a few more only to be told "No, not that time of year now. Besides, berries ripe, I'm busy putting them by."

Well, she makes a good point doesn't she? Everything has its season.

Rain Welcomes Princess Home

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, returned from their United States tour today in the rain.

She was met by the Earl of Westmoreland, who represented the Queen, and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

After their three-week visit to the United States, the princess and her husband flew to London from New York via Bermuda where the princess presented colors to the Bermuda Regiment during a six-hour stay.

A Long Walk Started It All

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It all started with that long walk that Debbie Reynolds took in the rain. It has ended with a posh dressing room trailer that threatens to cause major discontent among her fellow stars.

Between scenes of The Singing Nun, Miss Reynolds repairs to the most elegant trailer for a star since Marion Davies dwelt in a colonial mansion on wheels. And she enjoys it unashamedly.

"And why shouldn't I?" she said. "I spend almost as much time in this dressing room as I do in my own home. If you're going to be a star, you should live like a star."

It was different during her 14 years at MGM. Then her between-scenes time was spent in a series of shanties. When she was back on the lot for her first film there as a free-lancer, The Unsinkable Molly Brown, she cracked.

"The day that it happened, the rain was coming down like mad," she recalled. "I had to walk four blocks to the bathroom (actors' dressing rooms traditionally have no plumbing, then four blocks back.

"I was out for a week with a cold. That meant $30,000 a day loss to the studio, which seems like a ridiculous thing to have happen because there was no bathroom nearby."

Debbie decided to splurge on a trailer for herself, since the studio wasn't about to do it for her. She ordered a 34-footer and had it especially designed, inside and out. The trailer is divided into three sections: A sitting area with cushiony chairs and couch; the dressing make-up section, surrounded by full-length mirrors; storage and bath.

"I wanted it done with utter elegance," she explained. "This is what the public expects of movie stars: White milk rugs and champagne."

Debbie reported rather gleefully that her dressing room is stirring up trouble between her fellow stars and their studios.

HOLLYWOOD JOTTINGS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood notes and comment on the Hollywood scene—

William Holden has beaten the bug and is back at work. The actor picked up an ailment while in Louisiana on locations for Alvarez Kelly with Richard Widmark. At first it seemed like nothing worse than flu, but his condition worsened and he was taken to hospital.

Doctors decided he had been infected with salmonella, a form of paratyphoid he may have picked up from the water supply in Baton Rouge after the recent hurricane.

Alvarez Kelly suspended for a month while Holden recuperated. He returned to the film this week and reports he's feeling no after effects.

It was a big U.S. Thanksgiving dinner at Debbie Reynolds' house Thursday. With the death of Marie McDonald, Debbie and husband Harry Karl took custody of the three children of his marriage to Marie.

Tina Marie Karl, 9, goes to school with Debbie's children, Carrie and Todd. Teen-agers Harrison and Dede Karl, who were adopted, continue at boarding schools and come home for the weekends.

"Now we're really an interfaith family," says Debbie. She and her two children are Protestants, Harry is Jewish, and the three newcomers are Roman Catholics.

Jack Lemmon is still thawing out from his experience in Cleveland. He was there for Fortune Cookie locations, mostly in Municipal Stadium, home of the pro football Cleveland Browns.

Around The Rocks

As the first National Championship to roll around will be the "Pepsi-Cola" Dominion Schools Curling Association Championship, to be held at St. John's, Newfoundland, February 21, 1966, it would seem most fitting that we start this column with a breakdown of what this all means, to the school boy curler.

First like all well-run organizations, there must be dedicated personnel who take it upon themselves to handle the administration of all matters pertaining to this event, with no remuneration whatsoever.

On the provincial scale this year we have the following officers: president, R. D. Young of Kimberley; first vice-president, Jack Mitchell of Kitimat; second vice-president, Walt Hobbs of Kelowna; secretary, R. J. (Dick) Topping of Oliver. Now besides the named, we also have the Zone and Region conveners, who also do their part in arranging the various playoffs necessary to bring the final four regional representatives together to contest the Provincial Championship. "The right to go to Newfoundland on an all expense paid trip, sponsored by the Pepsi-Cola company with help from their local bottlers."

Now prior to these young budding curlers being able to participate in this their final objective, they have a long hard road to travel. They must first of all satisfy their school principal, that they are indeed doing everything they possibly can, (and I mean by this, to the best of your intelligence) to improve your scholastic standing. This is a must fellows, if you wish to get a chance at this great adventure. Now remember this does not mean that you have to be a brain, but it does mean that you must work for your future in life, and not just to be a schoolboy curling champ, give them both due consideration, and you will go a long way in this little old world of ours.

Now here in the South Okanagan, the next step is that the Zone has been set up in the following manner for play off purposes, and has been streamlined in order to minimize travel and time involved, although we are giving this a good hard look for revision in future years.

For this year the following schools will play down to one only rink, all schools within the Kelowna - Rutland area; the George Pringle school; the Summerland school; the schools in the Penticton area; the Princeton school; the South Okanagan high school; the Greenwood school and the Midway school.

The rinks representing these schools will now meet at Osoyoos on Saturday and Sunday, January 8 and 9, in a double event knockout, to decide the South Okanagan champion. I might say, our thanks has gone to the International Club of Osoyoos for hosting this play-down, free of any charge.

WINNER

The winner of this playdown, will now advance to the Regional final, which is a best two-out-of-three, against the North Okanagan champion, at Mountain Shadows Curling Club on Saturday, January 15, 1966.

Once again our thanks will go to the Mountain Shadows, also for free ice time.

And now the final stage for the Provincial Championship, which this year will be held at Kimberley, on January 29, 1966.

The four Provincial Regional rinks attending this event, will now have an expense account to cover their motor travel, motel and meal expenses. This is paid for by the B.C. Schools Curling Association, who obtain most of their funds from donations from the two parent associations, the BCCA and the PCCA, while the Pepsi-Cola company provide a grand banquet along with trophies for the champion and runner-up rink.

ONE ROCK

In the last two years, Kelowna have been the runner-up rink, on each occasion just one rock has told the tale. In 1963 Kelowna did win the Provincial Championship, then again they repeated in 1965, since that time, "just close," perhaps I was the jinx, (being the coach) this year the job will be taken over by others, and can only wish them every success in once again bringing home the championship.

One last thing, may I compliment the several teachers of the Dr. Knox, Kelowna senior high and Rutland high schools, in a job that is being well done with the school curlers some 150 in number, who are curling at the Kelowna Curling Club. Those giving their time are Mr. Greene, Mr. McKenzie, Mr. Gregory, Mr. Weddell, Mr. Drinkwater, teachers. Some of the other senior curlers noted, are Bill Robson, Jim Campbell, Nels Clow, Reg Lee and Alex Ferrier.

On the other hand, their enjoyment may lead them to recommend the shows to other members of the family who will be able to catch recommended shows at the late 10 to 11 p.m. time. In any case the alternative at 4 to 5 p.m. should be a welcome addition on CJOV-FM for those wishing it.

The programs you'll be able to hear are "Front Row Centre" on Monday, "Comedy Star Time" on Tuesday, more "Front Row Centre" Wednesday, "FM Theatre" Thursday and "Dimensions in Jazz" on Friday.

NEW CONCEPT

A new program concept replaces the "A World of Music" show formerly heard at 8:10 to 9:00 p.m. Monday to Saturday. Entitled "FM Variety Showcase", this will offer 10 minutes of varying program content nightly.

For example, Monday nights will have "Gloria" offering opera and operatic highlights. Tuesday evening's music of international variety. Wednesday a show starring today's leading modern popular pianists such as Peter Nero, George Shearing, Roger Williams and others in variety will be featured. Thursdays will again feature international music and Fridays will top the week with folk music and song by the best of the folk singers on the scene today.

This folk music will be of the more mellow variety and not "rock," or so called "message songs." Lovers of big bands of importance in the popular idiom will like "Big Band Heat" the "FM Variety Showcase" Saturday at 8:10 'til 9 p.m.

SUNDAY

Sunday afternoons will have CJOV-FM's second Sunday phase of separate programming starting at 3:00 instead of the former 4:30 time. A new program entitled "Premiere in Music" will start on Dec. 5 at this new time of 3 p.m. Gloria will be the hostess with her regular guest Gordon Bromley who is a leading authority on recorded music. Together they will delve into what's newest in recordings of all types and listeners will be able to enjoy their weekly cross section choice.

"A World of Music" which now becomes a weekly highlight feature, will be heard at 4 to 5 p.m. on Sunday afternoons.

GREY CUP

Tomorrow morning at 9:15 p.m., CJOV-FM will simulcast with CKOV-AM on "Grey Cup Preview" preceding the broadcast of the big game which will be aired at 9:45 until 12:15.

Sunday evening on "Strings and Things" from 8 to 10 p.m., "Alec Guinness and His Personal Choice" will feature prose and poetry by the great actor. Additionally you'll be able to enjoy the humor as featured on "Beyond the Fringe," the album which offers the best comedy from the revue of the same name.

"Comedy Star Time" Tuesday, Nov. 30, will star Jose Jimenez and Yogi Yorgenson in their own respective brands of laugh-provoking comedy. Times will be 4 to 5 and 10 to 11 p.m.

Gilbert and Sullivan's famed "Mikado" will be a special presentation scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 1 at 9 p.m.

The great comedienne, Anna Russell will be spotlighted on FM Theatre on the following evening, Tuesday, Dec. 2. Coincidentally enough she will perform her by now famous impression of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta style and some Wagnerian grand opera. This show is one we strongly recommend. Times are 4 to 5 and 10 to 11 p.m.

SHOWMAN WELL PREPARED

CBC director George Bloomfield has a philosophy degree, studied law and worked as a psychiatric counsellor before becoming an actor.

TAKE Five

By BETTY TOOLE

Interesting bowling news to come out of Victoria last week was of a 1966 triple bowled by a former Kelownian—Miss Dolly Bach. Dolly moved to the island city in August of this year. Bowling in a B.C. Employees League, she rolled games of 272, 276, and 285.

Those that have been bowling for the past few years have no doubt met or seen Dolly. I was fortunate in making the inter city team last year and had the opportunity of seeing Dolly perform under the pressure of tournament bowling. She was the top lady bowler from Kelowna with an average of over 235 for 16 games. Needless to say, over a two day pressure packed tournament this is excellent bowling. Her top notch bowling helped greatly in the winning of the mixed and the ladies team trophies for our district.

Last year Dolly held the position of general secretary of the Kelowna and District Five Pin Bowling association.

DANCE

The annual dance was held last Saturday, and for those that were unable to attend or felt it would be a dull boring affair missed having a terrific time. The Eldorados provided the music and did a fine job.

The Five-Pin Association extends a vote of thanks to Cec Favell, Gerda Perron and the other members of the entertainment committee for doing such a good job; the association is looking forward to their next promotion.

Here is the standing in the Penelicon roll-offs after 15 games. Top lady is Mary Lange with a 226 average and down to the seventh lady with a 204. Top man is Cy Lines with a 254 average down to the seventh man with a 230 average. They are rolling five game blocks and a total of 30 games.

"DREAM TEAM"

Don't forget to pick your "DREAM TEAM." This is the team to represent our district in the B.C. roll-offs and the western Canada championships. Here is a chance to be the expert and earn $25 by picking the order of the standings along with each bowler's average. A list of names and averages to date are at each bowling lane. Get your entry in before the closing date—Saturday night, Nov. 27.

Drop in at the lanes and cheer your favorites on, as the second eight game block begins on Sunday. The ladies start at 1:00 p.m. in Valley Lanes, and the men get rolling at 2:00 p.m. in Meridian Lanes.

THE BIG FIVE

LADIES—Doris Whittle, 224; Mari Lischka, 220; Joyce Rozell, 217; Mich Tabara, 214, and Jill Siebert, 214.

MEN—Lou Matanda, 261; Mike Kaga, 257; Tony Senger, 240; Cec Favell, 234, and Nick Babich, 233.

STARS GO TO GAMES

Cary Grant and Samantha Eggar star in the movie Walk, Don't Run, set in Tokyo during the 1964 Olympic Games.

MAKES FIRST MOVIE

The first movie role of television comedian Soupy Sales is in Birds Do It, now being filmed at Miami Beach.

MRS. HATFIELD SURROUNDED BY HER WORKS OF ART

Talented Handcraft Artist Daughter of Valley Pioneer

By FLORA EVANS

A talented potter, weaver and teacher of handcrafts, is Frances Hatfield, daughter of a pioneer Okanagan family who settled in the southern end of the Valley in 1910, later moving to the Kelowna district where they became orchardists.

A graduate of the Vancouver School of Art, Mrs. Hatfield also studied at the Ontario College of Art, apprenticed with Kjeld and Erica Dietzman, well known New Brunswick potters, then travelled, worked and studied weaving for several years in Europe.

Two years ago she was selected from a group of two dozen potters to study with Hamade of Japan during a special course he conducted at San Jose State College in California. She has taught pottery in Vancouver and taught at the Okanagan Summer School of Art in Penticton in 1963. She is at present teaching on the Vernon Adult Education program and is also known in the Valley for her weekly column "Nimble Fingers" in the Daily Courier.

Mrs. Hatfield moved back to the Okanagan a year ago, she told me, because of the wonderful clean air, the smell of the pines and the contours of the hills which reach out and beckon to the artist. The Okanagan, she said, is also the nicest place in the world to bring up a child.

During the past summer she operated the Pinehill Pottery Shop in Winfield but has now relocated closer to town for the convenience of winter shoppers and opened a Handcraft Shop in the lobby of the Mountain Shadows Country Club Lodge, where she displays the work of such well known Canadian potters as Wayne Ngan of Vancouver, Texas Kidrick of Ontario and the Osbornes of Victoria, as well as her own beautiful pottery.

Wool work and handwoven articles by Okanagan craftsmen, handwoven tweeds with matching knitting yarns from New Brunswick, after-ski ponchos handwoven by herself, pewter jewellery by Danish and Canadian craftsmen featuring Haida Indian motifs, polyester work from Vancouver and ceramic and copper pieces from Ontario and strings of seed and bean necklaces by local craftsmen are also to be found in her boutique.

If you are looking for fascinatingly different and beautiful Christmas presents for the special people in your life, I strongly advise you to visit the Handcraft Shop at Mountain Shadows, you will find such a veritable treasure trove there that your main trouble will be to choose. You will also enjoy browsing around the shop while Mrs. Hatfield, who is utterly charming as well as being talented, gives you the background of her various treasures.

In an interview last week with Holly Middleton, the interviewer expressed some surprise that almost all the watercolors in her current exhibition had been done since September of this year. The ability to do this comes from many years of experience in the watercolor medium.

And too, Holly Middleton is a professional artist who works at her craft full time, that includes working on a watercolor while under a hair dryer, as she did last Thursday. Her watercolors look like watercolors. Only rarely does she resort to the use of opaque colors, to achieve a particular feature.

The technique of watercolor painting is the application of transparent color to white paper. It demands a disciplined skill.

TECHNIQUE

Middleton's technique is facile, expert, clean; a direct statement by a sure hand. The landscape compositions are imaginative, as the ones without skies demonstrate.

There should be no surprise, then, that these paintings have all been executed during the last three months.

Single out a painting and ask how long it took to do and the answer may be 20 minutes, as with "Blue Span."

"Maligne Country" may have taken four hours, for all I know.

Each painting is really the sum total of one's painting experience.

A successful watercolor "comes off" because of the lessons learned from the ones that don't.

You can't win 'em all.

So this exhibition of 25 watercolors (mostly of the Okanagan) is the work of a professional, accomplished artist.
